(WAVY) — A Virginia Beach man who says he was sexually assaulted by a Virginia state trooper as he was trying to protect his wife has filed a federal lawsuit. Jason Stinchcomb says he was pulling his car into a parking lot in Virginia Beach on Jan. 26, 2018, to pick up some money when he says he was stopped by a trooper. "I have been out of jail for six years. I am not the kind of person to go back in again," Stinchcomb said. Stinchcomb said on the day of the incident his wife was in a vehicle on the other side of the parking lot. "He saw my wife's car and said that they were in an accident, that I needed to come see my wife," Stinchcomb said. Stinchcomb
