In 2013, these clinics treated more than 1.2 million patients through more than 16,000 visits. Clinic operations are managed by nurse clinicians with a mix of medical and nursing supervision. Services provided by clinics are an integral part of Massachusetts' statewide systems of care for children and adults with special health care needs. Download Common problems encountered in nurse-managed clinics Some MINCCs, especially in the region, may experience a number of problems during the day, including: reducing the number of patients seen every half hour, increasing the wait time for patients, and struggling with high patient volumes Patients may be referred to clinic staff for issues unrelated to their care (e.g., drug diversion from the facility, theft of personal property, etc.) as a way to prevent overcrowding and maintain standard of care for all patients. Strategies CMS has identified four key strategies to help MINCCs improve patient flow and operational efficiency: Diversion and recovery (D&R) is the process of establishing a secured area where patients who are intoxicated or under the influence of a controlled substance may be brought for safe disposal or
