• Earn trophies from 50 challenges to be placed within the Trivia Vault. • Vault trophies will be able to be spent to unlock in-game content. • After unlocking super powers, players will need to unlock a set of X-Ray Vision. • X-Ray Vision will allow players to see through the game. • The X-Ray Vision will only be available when a player is playing the game. • Once the player is playing the game, the player will be able to see the X-Ray Vision ability. How To Use Trivia Vault: Some Heroes will have a special tile created for them that will place them into the Trivia Vault. When viewing a character in Trivia Vault mode, the player will be able to access the item tile. From the item tile, the player can begin training characters specific to those item tiles. This requires earning a certain amount of EXP to unlock. When the player levels up a character trained using the item tile, the player will be presented with the item tile again. The player will now have access to a Battle Bonus Summon box which the character can be placed in. The bonus rewards will be determined by that character's item tile when placed in the Battle Bonus Summon box. Note: Training begins when the player reaches level 10 of the character and the player already has the required exp in their inventory. Exp is gained from training individual character ranks up and character levels up. The levels are based on each character. For example, if a player levels up a Training: Wolverine tile, he will gain level 10 for that character. Each character can be level up from multiple Training: Wolverine tiles. Training will grant experience for multiple characters. The experience from each character will be used up when level 4 experience is reached. The player can choose which character to level up. Note: Training will be ended when all of the experience for that character is used up. Once experience is used up, Training tiles will stop working until all the characters levels are up. The player will receive a message alerting them they did not gain enough experience for that character to reach level 4. After level 4 experience is reached, the character will no longer gain experience from Training tiles.

Training: Wolverine: X-Man: Wolverine has shown up during the game. When training him, the player will receive special items for level up of his character. Nightc
