The characters are made by highly skilled artists, and their movements are a joy to watch. Play as the heroines of the high school, and make a record of their journey in events that are unlike any other! [Story] "Natsuiro High School" is a school where boys and girls from the same class move in the same school building... [By the way, there will be different characters in the future arc.] Modeling Gigantus Hi everyone, how is everyone doing? I recently was working hard on modeling the late-model Gargantus (Gigantus Mk.III). I added a horn, a third eyelid, some armor cuts, and face patches as well as the white stripe on the 'wings' on the back. 2. Gigantus Mk.III's Color I could not find much information about the color of the Gigantus, but the example images and descriptions are very close to what I gave. It's more of a yellow color than the other two colors. 3. Cartography and Texturing My friend, Zepth, who is also a talented artist, was helping me with the maps and I can't wait to show you guys the finished map. I also updated the article with a height map, which Zepth made for me. He has been so helpful that I might make a more of a "Photo" article for Zepth's work in the future. Thanks a lot Zepth!! I really hope you all enjoy this newest "how to" article and there will be more Gigantus articles coming soon. Enjoy and see you all very soon. Thanks for reading. ~ Hailey "Tubelover" Richardson Hello Everyone, First of all thank you for stopping by my awesome website! Welcome to the first section of "A Colossal Title (Fantastic)" which is a guide to animation that I made for my college class. Most of the script was written by the Professor and it is an extremely confusing way of writing, but the class is difficult so I had to figure out what makes sense. The first section will be the beginning of the movement schedule for animation

Q: Unbiased estimator for σ^2 for a Normal Distribution
Suppose we have $X \sim \text{N}(0, \sigma^2)$, and X is independent of $Y \sim \text{N}(0, \sigma^2)$. I have an estimator for σ^2 that is unbiased: $\hat{\sigma}^2 = \frac{1}{n-2} \sum_{i=1}^n (X_i - \bar{X})^2$ By Theorem 3.9 in Shorack and Wellner, this is an unbiased estimator for σ^2 if and only if $Y|X \sim \text{N}(X, \sigma^2)$. Is this correct? In that case, is it also a consistent estimator for σ^2 ? A: You have that X is independent of \overline{X} and Y is independent of \overline{Y} , so \overline{X} and \overline{Y} are independent. Thus $P(\overline{X} = \overline{Y}) = \prod P(\overline{X} = y) = \prod P(X = y) = \sigma^2$. So you just have to interpret it as $Y \sim \text{N}(\overline{X}, \sigma^2)$, then you have: $\overline{X} \sim \text{N}$
