Hi there! After many years of working on games and making games, I finally have enough time to release my own game. At first, you can't play because it will be offline, but in the next month, I will release the first version with an online campaign and 3 maps. Thank you for your support, and for trying this game! It's really different from my previous games. Thanks for the feedback, bro! You have worked hard on this game and got a lot of people interested on it! In a couple of weeks (maybe a month), I have a lot of enhancements planned, including AI improvements, multiplayer, gameplay improvements and working on the combat system/game-mechanics. I hope you enjoy this game and the future updates! Hey there. The game is a turn-based strategy game, quite similar to Clash of Clans. It's still under progress, so there are many features in there that are not quite

Zombinato - Death Ode in C minor, Op. 70 (Requiem) (transcription) (E Minor) Michael Mannus - Nuages de Danse Hoagy Carmichael and Johnny Mercer - Star DustQ: Set width to be exactly equal to width of screen I am trying to make a left navigation menu with a set width. However, I am trying to make it to fit exactly with the width of the screen, in other words, if the resolution is bigger than 1280px (my resolution is 1366px) than the navigation menu will still take the same width. A: This worked for me, as I can't reproduce your issue: .menu{ width: 100%; } @media (min-width: 1024px){ .menu { width: 1280px; } } @media (min-width: 1300px){ .menu { width: 1600px; } } Says: Make this div's width be exactly 1280px If the screen is 1024px or wider, make this div's width be exactly 1280px If the screen is 1300px or wider, make this div's width be exactly 1600px Make sure to put those CSS files after your site's CSS file in order for the CSS styles to apply. What's new in Spectra - Soundtrack:

There are two types of videos we put up on the site - Those made in conjunction with a film we like enough to post and a couple of those where the film doesn't fit and it is left to the creators of the video clip to make any kind of coverage of the track. Whichever way you might have heard this song, we think it's the kind of track that should be listened to for its own merit and that's what we'd like to see the best cover videos - to really start to enjoy the track for what it is. The name of our soundtrack series is spectra Looking forward to seeing more of your interpretations. No, I am not a full time composer/programmer, nor a musician in any other way than occasionally I play the accordion...Ovehal-Endicott v Queen Elizabeth Airport Holdings PLC Ovehal-Endicott v Queen Elizabeth Airport Holdings PLC [2017] EWCA Civ 2650 is an English contract law case, concerning misrepresentation. Facts Ovehal-Endicott did a computer architecture consultancy for the airport. It used Windows XP with only a 270MB hard disk drive. But some airports had a requirement that the airport host used only Windows Vista. Ovehal said they would find a solution. But when they found a new machine with 20 times the hard disk capacity, Queen Elizabeth Airport Holdings PLC refused it. The software they used was not linked to any airlines. The airline that wished for the model (low cost American Airlines) cancelled the service agreement. Ovehal then lost money. Ovehal-Endicott sued. The court held that Ovehal and Intellicom were justified in reliance, that its hard disk was a limited resource that had to be used. Their contract had said they would be given a solution. That solution became invalid. Judgment Peirce LJ held that the buyers' duty of care was not breached. Ovehal-Endicott could rely on the contractual language of responding to their needs. Bryant LJ and Brightman LJ concurred.
