PC-DMIS V2.1 PC-DMIS V2.1.Turkey: 4 people found dead in attacks on two mosques, at least two militants detained ISTANBUL İstiklal Avenue was closed to pedestrians as police officers and forensic experts work at an area near the Atlas courier company in Istanbul's Beyoğlu district, after a bomb exploded in a back alley on April 13. AA Photo Four people were found dead in attacks on two mosques and a fireworks store, and at least two militants were detained in the southeastern provinces of Diyarbakır and Şırnak, the Governor's Office for the Eastern Marmara Region said in a statement.The two attacks took place in the Zeytinbey neighborhood in Istanbul's Beyoğlu district.Law enforcement officers raided a house in the neighborhood after a bomb exploded in a back alley of a courier company, Istanbul Police Chief İbrahim Çapar said after the blasts on April 13.One of the four bodies found in that house was identified as a member of the outlawed leftist People's Liberation Party-Front (THKP-C), the police said, adding that a police dog had found another body.The police suspected that the owner of the house was the mastermind of the attacks.Two people were also detained in a house in the Zeytinbey neighborhood of Beyoğlu district, where police arrested three Kurdish militants in a separate operation.The suspects were caught on the outskirts of the city after a police car was fired on on Monday, prompting an investigation into the car-bombing that killed the two suspects in Beyoğlu, Çapar said.Security forces were also searching for a third man in connection with the attack.A Police report said that the owner of the house where the suspects were caught was linked to a Kurdish militant group.Police had detained the man several times in connection with the organisation, which has claimed responsibility for multiple attacks in recent years.As part of an operation against a drug gang, police raided a house in the Sultanbeyli district of the city after a bomb exploded in the yard of the building, Çapar said.Police detained the owner of the house during the raid, according to the statement.Two suspects were also detained in that operation. Çapar said that the c6a93da74d
